DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
2. Claims 1-2 are rejected as failing to define the invention in the manner required by 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph. The claims are narrative in form and replete with indefinite and functional or operational language. The structure which goes to make up the device must be clearly and positively specified. The structure must be organized and correlated in such a manner as to present a complete operative device. The claim(s) must be in one sentence form only. Note the format of the claims in the patent(s) cited.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:
A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –
(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
2. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lombardo [U.S. Patent No. 5,289,839]. Lombardo (figures 1-7) teaches of an umbrella structure for releasing wind comprising: A few dozens of holes (note the cross-section of one hole as depicted in fig. 2 – the figures depict the umbrella in a cross-sectional view and therefore do not show the inherent plurality of these wind venting structures) on the cloth (10) of the umbrella surface; A few dozens of sleeve-shaped wind-release channels (52f for example); the sleeve-shaped channel has two ends, a big end (close to the hole) and a small end (distal end of channel opposite the hole); wherein the hole and sleeve-shaped channel are connected (fig. 2 e.g.), both are evenly distributed around the handle (30) on the surface of the umbrella. The diameter of the holes may vary in size according to the wind power [the holes have an inherent elasticity – as best understood by the examiner]. The small end of the sleeve-shaped channel has a curved finish (note fig. 2 – top depiction), such design is to prevent the rain water from leaking into the wind-release channel while releasing wind all the way from the hole through the channel to the small end of the sleeve-shaped channel. The big end of the channel is seamlessly affixed to the hole [in as much as applicant depicts the claimed feature] on the umbrella surface. The ratio size between the big and small ends of the channel is small enough to permit the channel to lie parallel to the umbrella surface. As to the method of connecting the channel,

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Johnson et al., German publication 4115467, Noel, Ryder et al., Morales and Kupferman describe wind resistant umbrellas.
